Frank Clark Hills Patent: Records

Lewisham Local History and Archives Centre

Lewisham Library, 199-201 Lewisham High Street, London SE13 6LG

The following item were received from Mrs E. Reeves Connor

Introduction

This collection contains letters patent of Frank Clarke Hill for improvements in gas manufacture.

Frank Clarke Hills took over the copperas works at Deptford [see A/75/27 for deed] that had closed in 1836. He had patented a process for purifying gas [See A/70/11 for patent] and made a fortune from it. It used a natural mineral which contained enough iron oxide that if porous would purify gas. Mines like Mone mine in Amlwich supplied a large amount of this mineral throughout the world. In 1840 he bought the tide mill and adjoining property that soap maker George Russell had built in East Greenwich. At this time he is referred to as an 'industrial chemist' of Deptford. He developed chemicals based on gas industry waste products from which he made a large fortune and, with his brothers, owned works in Wales, Spain and elsewhere. He had also developed a steam car and patented an important piece of gearing. He went on to become a major London shipbuilder, perhaps involved with The Warrior.

A/71/2 London Trustees Savings Bank, Sydenham: Opening: Records

Lewisham Local History and Archives Centre

Lewisham Library, 199-201 Lewisham High Street, London SE13 6LG

The following item were received from the Borough Librarian.

Introduction

The new Sydenham branch of the London Trustees Savings Bank was located at 59 Sydenham Road.

The London Trustees Savings Bank opened new premises at 181 Lewisham High Street in 1965. In 1810, the Reverend Henry Duncan of Ruthwell, Dumfriesshire, set up a bank to help his poorest parishioners save for times of hardship. It was such a popular scheme that by 1818 there were 465 savings banks in Britain (including 182 in Scotland). The Trustee Savings Bank Association (TSBA) was established in 1887 to help the individual banks co-operate and to advise on matters of common concern. The 1985 TSB Act opened the way for the group to restructure in preparation for its stock market flotation in 1986. The following year saw a network of estate agencies set up, the acquisition of Hill Samuel Bank and Target Life, and the launch of Speedlink, Britain's first telephone banking system. TSB England and Wales became TSB Bank plc in 1989, and the newly named TSB Bank Scotland plc and TSB Bank Northern Ireland plc became its subsidiaries that year. In 1991 Allied Irish Banks bought TSB Bank Northern Ireland and in 1992 TSB Bank Channel Islands became a subsidiary of TSB Bank. In 1995, the merger between TSB and Lloyds Bank formed Lloyds TSB Group plc.

Lewisham Library, 199-201 Lewisham High Street, London SE13 6LG

The following items were received from Mr S. Hodgson.

Introduction

This collection contains cartoon and autograph letter of Thomas Hill and a letter from Joseph Paxton to David Roberts.

Paxton, Joseph, Sir, 1801-1865, Knight, politician architect and landscape gardener. Rockhills, Sydenham [1852 – 1865]

Hill, Thomas (1760–1840), book-collector of Sydenham, Kent [? - 1810]. In his cottage at Sydenham he held celebrated 'Sydenham Sundays', he used to entertain 'literati, artists, wits and actors' (New Monthly Magazine, 43), including John and Charles Kemble, Theodore Hook, Campbell, Edward Dubois, the Hunts, James and Horace Smith, and the comedian Charles Mathews. These hospitable parties are vividly recalled in a number of memoirs, including those of Mrs Mathews, who celebrates 'days of unmixed pleasure'. About 1810, after losing heavily through speculation in indigo, He retired to chambers at 2 James Street, Adelphi, London. Longmans gave £3000 to £4000 for his books, which formed the basis for their Bibliotheca Anglo-poetica (1815). He caught a severe cold at Rouen and died in the Adelphi on 20 December in his 81st year, leaving Edward Dubois most of his remaining fortune, which was sold by auction on 23 April 1841.

Roberts, David (1796–1864), artist, his daughter Christine had married Henry Sanford Bicknell, the second son of the art patron Elhanan Bicknell (1788–1861) who became his close friend. Elhanan lived at Carlton House, Herne Hill [1819 – 1861] and his son Percy owned Foxgrove Mansion, Beckenham. Roberts painted during his travels abroad including images of Egypt. He was commissioned to paint the opening of the Great exhibition. He was buried at Norwood Cemetery alongside Elhanan.

Introduction

The Mercer's Company built the College Park estate in the 1860s and 1870s over the fields of a small farm that the company administered as trustees of a charity. It was one of the most significant additions to the number of middle class houses in Lewisham during that building boom. Clarendon Road (now Clarendon Rise) was the main artery of the new estate. Maverston Lodge, No.49 (now demolished), was built in the early 1870s.

Lewisham Local History and Archives Centre

Lewisham Library, 199-201 Lewisham High Street, London SE13 6LG

The following items were received from British Record Association [Ref BRA 1575 1728]

Introduction

This collection contains Conveyance by Samuel P Parker to Frank C Hills in trust for benefit of creditors of one half of Copperas Ground and Newman's Rose Walk Copperas Dock, St Pauls Deptford

Frank Clark Hills took over the copperas works at Deptford [see A/75/27 for deed] that had closed in 1836. He had patented a process for purifying gas [See A/70/11 for patent] and made a fortune from it. It used a natural mineral which contained enough iron oxide that if porous would purify gas. Mines like Mone mine in Amlwich supplied a large amount of this mineral throughout the world. In 1840 he bought the tide mill and adjoining property that soap maker George Russell had built in East Greenwich. At this time he is referred to as an 'industrial chemist' of Deptford. He developed chemicals based on gas industry waste products from which he made a large fortune and, with his brothers, owned works in Wales, Spain and elsewhere. He had also developed a steam car and patented an important piece of gearing. He went on to become a major London shipbuilder, perhaps involved with The Warrior.

Introduction

This collection contains printed notices, reports, and advertisements relating to Deptford, Kent and the River Thames through London.

In 1513 Henry VIII established the Corporation of Trinity House at Deptford. It was responsible for collecting pilotage and light dues on the Thames. This made it easier for larger vessels to negotiate the river. Elizabeth I insisted that the Corporation set up buoys and beacons to help ships find their way at sea. Since that time, the Corporation has been responsible for lighthouses, buoys, lightships and other navigational aids. Later they took on the role of establishing and maintaining lighthouses and other aids to navigation around the country. In 1670 Trinity house established almshouses for its members in Deptford. They were pulled down in 1877.

See <http://www.ideal-homes.org.uk/lewisham/deptford/trinity-almshouses-1840.htm> for picture of the almshouses.

Introduction

The New Cross turnpike gate, where tolls were collected from traffic using the New Cross Road (on the route from London to Dover). An Act of Parliament in 1718 established the New Cross Turnpike Trust to look after the main road from Kent. At the top of Clifton Rise is the site of the old New Cross tollgate, which existed from 1718 to 1813. In 1819 the tollgate was moved to the junction Queen's Road and New Cross Road in Hatcham [as can be seen in the 2 pictures in the links below]. At its height the turnpike trust was responsible for almost 40 miles of roads from Bermondsey to Croydon. In 1865 the turnpike trust was abolished and the toll gate was removed.

A/78/33 Plans of the 'Red House', Deptford

Introduction

This collection contains a series of plans, ink and wash on paper (probably all drawn c.1787-1790 by James Arrow from designs by Henry James Arrow?) Arrow, James, fl 1787-1790, draftsman

The 'Red House', or Royal Naval victualling and supply depot, grew up alongside the Royal dockyard at Deptford in the 16th and 17th Centuries. A warehouse of red brick, known as the 'Red House' was in existence by 1639, in which year it was destroyed by fire. It was rebuilt in 1665 by Sir Henry Gunden, contractor for victualling the fleet, and remained in the hands of private contractors such as Gunden and Sir Nicholas Crispe until 1742 when a Royal Naval Victualling Yard was formally established there. There were repeated fires on the site, c.1726 and in 1748, 1755, 1758 and 1761. A considerable amount of rebuilding took place in the 1780s and most, if not all, of the plans below date from this period. Those with earlier dates are probably copies made in the 1780s. The Yard grew from 11 acres in 1742 to over 35 acres in the later 19th century; the additional land taken from the adjoining estate of the Evelyn family. It received the name 'Royal Victoria Yard' after a visit by Queen Victoria in 1858. During the 19th century it was the largest of the Home Victualling Establishments; biscuit, chocolate, mustard, pepper and other foodstuffs were manufactured on site and large supplies of clothing, food, tobacco, rum and naval stores were maintained. The Yard finally ceased operations in 1961 and the site was redeveloped by the Greater London Council for housing as the Pepys Estate. The Gates survive and the Porter's House, Lodge, Cheque House, Officer's Houses and two prominent blocks of warehouses were retained and converted into flats, a library and a sailing centre.

A/79/14 Lewisham Residents Association

Lewisham Local History and Archives Centre

Lewisham Library, 199-201 Lewisham High Street, London SE13 6LG

The following items were received from Grove Park Residents Association

Introduction

This collection contains the records of the Secretary, Executive Committee, the South-Lea Sub-Area, the South Lea Area Committee and Grove Park Area. Includes minutes, reports and correspondence.

The Lewisham Residents Association was formed in 1945 just before the end of the war. It came into existence as a result of a certain "disgust" by several residents in the Borough over the way the Council was dealing with problems caused by bomb damage.

An informal meeting of 44 discontented residents in March 1945 at the Studios in Clarendon Rise, SE13, resulted in the formation of a provisional committee under the chairmanship of Mr E W Thorpe, which eventually became the Lewisham Residents Association.

Following rapid growth, the first general meeting of the Lewisham Residents Association was held in August 1945 in Davenport Hall, Catford. The Association became organised on a federal basis with several area committees, which often coincided with wards. This area was served by two committees, Grove Park and South Lee.

From 1954 until ill-health forced his retirement in the early 1960s, the secretary of the LRA was Arthur Glew of 64 Rochester Way, SE3 - an address that was actually just outside the Borough. Mr Glew was a very hard-working and conscientious secretary. He died in the Miller Hospital on 10th March 1965.

The Grove Park area was always very active and was well served by the equally hard-working Mr. Minter Taylor of Marvels Lane, the area secretary since at least 1957.

Many of the area committees became dormant in the late 1950s and after the resignation of Mr. Glew the Association rapidly disintegrated. The last recorded activity of the LRA was a Grove Park area meeting on 24th May 1965 at the home of Mr. Minter Taylor. This gentleman, who worked for a shipping company until his retirement, has also left this world.

Many of the records of the LRA survived to be passed on to the Grove Park Residents Association after its formation in 1969. All the extant records - which are part of Lewisham's social history - are now being donated by the GPRA to the Borough's archives at Manor House Library, where they will shortly be available for inspection by the public.

Introduction

This collection contains administrative, financial, personal and other records of Chiltonian Ltd (biscuit manufacturers).

Chiltonian Ltd., 1933 - 1980, Lee, biscuit manufacturers and Perfecta Foods, biscuit manufacture. Chiltonian's were a biscuit manufacturers, based at Manor Lane, Lee.

The business takes its name from the maiden name of the founder's mother, Mary Chilton. The business had its origins in 1908 when Arthur Chilton King purchased Perfecta Foods which had been trading in dog biscuits and poultry foods. In 1911, their baking plant was erected near Hither Green Railway Station. The firm expanded during the Great War making biscuits for the Army. When peace came, the product range expanded into fancy biscuits. A new and larger premises was constructed at Manor Lane, Lee in 1924-1925. Up to now, it had been a partnership between Arthur, Herbert and Harold King, but in 1933 they adopted limited liability status and the company was called Chiltonian Ltd. Once again, during 1939-1945, Service contracts dominated the company's orders. New management structures, a national sales force and the introduction of newer machinery followed 1945. UK branded tonnage peaked in 1973 and the company joined a new food group, the Dawnay Day Group. However, Dawnay Day eventually decided to concentrate on its City interests and Chiltonian became part of the Amalgamated Biscuits Group in 1980.
